ABOUT THEMAGAZINE

It is mentioned that in any industry, change is a good thing. Change encompasses what GE has managed to become, from its pillar to its now growing dynasty. The new Steel Tribune represents the transition the company is going through, it is breaking free from contemporary practices to provide new breed of security services to different companies. The magazine, however, does not turn its back to the circumstances of the past, but rather builds on them, to be the guiding principle towards where the company wants to go. We dedicate this magazine to the people who made everything possible, through their unending support and trust the company managed to cement its name to the industry. The magazine also serves as a reminder of the contribution of the men and women who dedicated their service and efforts to live out the brand of service Gruppo

Eslabon is known for.

WHAT'S INSIDE

WORDS FROM THE FOUNDERS

As we march towards the 20th year anniversary of our pioneer company, Shooters Security Services, this year, the entire Gruppo Eslabon (GE) is yet again reminded of our sworn duties to the people. As among pioneers in this industry, we are challenged each year to 'better our best' in hopes of coping with the demands of society.

As our country served as hosts to this year's Asia-Pacific Economic Corporate (APEC), this distinction has brought on a come. greater challenge to the security industry. The world is becoming smaller day in and day out and threats are becoming more complex. Among the the threats encountered by today's generation are terrorism, radicalism and cyber-fraud. Labelled as the generation of technology, crime perpetrators are taking their evil minds to work overtime. How do we respond to this? We at GE are committed in equipping our personnel with both the skills and technical knowledge to counter these threats. We will keep in mind our sworn duty to provide state of the art security to the Filipino people wherever they are.

As one of the founders, of this group, I made it a personal commitment to better our programs and strategies. Our clients and people have my unwavering dedication and together, with the help of God, we will steer GE further to new and greater heights in the years to

As our response to the current ASEAN integration, GE will launch another company this year, The Eagle Guard Global Security Services Inc. The main goal of the company is not only cater to the needs of our 'Kababayans' but also to our neighbouring countries in the region. But the dream of going 'global' comes with it challenges that the company needs to hurdle; these challenges includes cultural diversity and integration of technology.

In my analysis, what makes today's crimes dangerous is that it can happen anywhere, even in computers. People are now caught up inside a bubble called technology that make them easy targets to criminal minds who prey on their victims on however possible. It can be anyone; anyone can steal your identity and hack on your personal accounts, because the crime happens online suspects do not leave their virtual fingerprints. which make the crime harder to resolve. GE wants to execute plans that addresses requirements that covers both physical and virtual crimes in order to provide our clients with holistic security platforms.

As among the leaders in the security industry in our country, we will never be tired in reminding the people about the dangers of the society. As the trusted partners of both private and government entities , individuals and corporations, we will build on our experiences for better services. This is a challenge for us, and a challenge that we willingly accepted for the benefit of those we serve. GE is a reliable supporter of the government in nation building, by keeping the private sector safe and secured, therefore attracting more companies to invest in the Philippines.

GE EDITORIAL BOARD

THEUNVEILINGOFA GEREGIONAL COMPANY

GRUPPO ESLABON IS NOW GOING GLOBAL.

In line with the company's vision of extending its services to our ASEAN neighbours, Gruppo Eslabon is proud to launch its new company: THE EAGLE GUARD GLOBAL SECURITY SERVICES INC. This move is in response to the ASEAN integration, in order for the company to cope with the globalization trends and to continuously build on its reputation of being among the leaders of security services in the Philippines.

By going global, GE is aiming to extend its brand of service to regional clienteles whom are eyeing for a provider that will give them the security platform tailor fit to their company and individual needs. GE is aware of the possible risks and challenges it will encounter as it goes beyond the borders of the Philippines, cultural and language barriers are just some of the possible hurdles that the company will face, but GE believes in their capacity to break boundaries to tap a wider client market.

BREAKING BOUNDARIES is the main battle cry of GE's decision to penerate the global market, it hopes that it will open more doors for not only the company but also for aspiring Filipino people to realize their respective global dreams.

In line with the current trends in the global scene, GE believes that the experiences and lessons it garnered in serving the local market have prepared the group to a bigger and more diverse clientele.

THEFIRST TWO DECADES OF SHOOTERS SECURITY SERVICES From 1996 to Infinity

The Hands that Rocked the GE Cradle:

Jennifer "Jen" T. Eslabon Finance Director, Shooters Security Services

As Shooters Security Services draws near its 20th Anniversary, one woman through her management and financial skills helped stir the company to what it is today. Jen Eslabon, with her ever nurturing presence, treated the company like her own child, making sure that it grows the way she envisioned it. Always a dedicated person who wants nothing but the best for Shooters, Jen stood with the company through its infancy ups and downs.

As one of the pioneering executives (also one of the owners), Jen has witnessed how the company bloomed from its humble beginnings to becoming one of the leading agency of her time. As a Business Administration graduate, Jen used her full skills in advancing the business interest of Shooters. Her management innovation has always been one of the cornerstones that defined Shooters Security Services. The belief prompted Jen and all the people in the company to continuously desire upgrade in terms of the quality security services delivery that is brought about by the need of the society for well-trained,, disciplined and multi-skilled security forces.

The Humble Beginnings

When the company launched in 1996 with Jen, it only has a lone client under its clientele but with the efforts of the people behind it, its clientele skyrocketed to more than 200 establishments. The growth is a testament to the kind of security brand Shooters offers to the market. The type of clients ranges from luxurious hotels, highrise offices, residential condominiums and multinational corporations.

What made it all possible? Jen and the brand is proud of its commitment to provide personalized service and management to its clients. At a 98% client retention rate ever since its founding year, Shooters with Jen has cemented its name as one of the country's leading security provider.

Gearing up for the future

Jen and Shooters is not yet done in terms of taking security services and management to greater heights. As society's demands for security change and expand, Jen and Shooters are gearing for more challenging years to come. The effort of strengthening the brand began with training its personnel in terms of security skills. New acquisition of security equipments is among the company's efforts to provided the best service to its loyal clients.

DEO SAN MIGUEL CHIEF SECURITY OFFICER, ACACIA HOTEL THE BEST UNFORGETTABLE THING

Functioning for more than a year now as the Chief Security Officer of the globally-renowned Acacia Hotel – Manila, in Muntinlupa City, Deo as he is called by his comrades, subordinates and friends, the soft spoken native of Lagonoy, Camarines Sur and a Criminology graduate at Partido College, Camarines Sur, started his career with Shooters Security Services, Inc (SSSI) in November 1999 as a house officer. In reminiscing his early days with GE, Deo was captivated by the corporate values, culture and tradition of Gruppo Eslabon - the tenets of hardwork, discipline, dedication and trustworthiness, that are imbued to any and all its security personnel.

Deo proudly quantified to have enormously instilled into his being the GE core corporate values which generated his rising from the ranks, from an ordinary guard then Detachment Officer until achieving his present corporate status with the said prestigious hotel in November 2014.

His learning from the GE is what he considered as "the best unforgettable thing" that ever happened in his life and conceitedly imparts to the whole world that he do not have any single regret in joining the Gruppo Eslabon in general and the Shooters in particular except his immortal gratitude to the security firm for transforming him into what he is now.

He further his acknowledgement to the organization by conveying that thru his memorable stint with GElove, respect and admiration are the treasures he had reaped from his family members, friends, comrades and contemporaries in the security industry. After applying to Shooters Security Services in 2003, Allan Suarez has proved that with his hardwork and dedication he can help the company reach great heights. Allan initially served as a house officer for GE, Allan served Shooters for more than a decade and even up to now , working for another company, gives the same level of work enthusiasm for service delivery he had 12 years ago.

He added that he learned how to be flexible ,thanks to GE, "if it is so hard for you to get what you want, learn to be flexible, during that time, I believed that it's was hard for me get a job in an engineering company witht out the right connection, so I made a little diversion with my career, I waded first to security"

He shared that without the right amount of perseverance, he never imagined himself surviving the demanding role he then played with GE.

When he further matured and blended himself well in the system of GE, Allan said that GE has allowed him the opportunity to meet all types of people. The experience honed his interpersonal skills. "Working with GE made me exposed to different kinds of personalities, and learned to interact with our client professionally wherever I was assigned, I learned to control and display the proper attitude to serve the interest of my company as well as the interest of our client. Above all I developed leadership, on how to handle things in any situation, taking care the of the property of the client and GE itself.

"The more you achieved things by your own effort the more youinspired to do more." Despite already being where he is, Allan feels that he still have much to offer . He welcomes every learning opportunity that will come his way.

RICHARD M. ZABAT ADMINISTRATOR. EMILIO CHING GROUP OF CMPANIES LEARNING FROM THE BEST IN THE BUSINESS

I accomplished my tasks properly and efficiently at the beginning and later, mostly excellently and admirably. That time. I have dedicated myself to provide firstrate security service.

Richard Zabat or "Chad" is no stranger to the security while this was challenging, it was something I personally business, from his humble beginnings to the seasoned professional he is today, Chad credits the business for showing him his potentials. After taking the long road to become a successful security professional.

"When I started working with GE, I was hired as an Assistant Detachment Commander (ADC), It may be said that I was just then having fun providing security services considering my background as a former ROTC cadet. During that time, he was not sure where the security road will take him, but as soon as he got his feet wet in the business, he realized that he was part of something bigger, he was not only a security provider but also a multi-tasking professional, "I therefore exerted much effort and diligence to accomplish my tasks. With this in mind, I accomplished my tasks properly and efficiently at the beginning and later, mostly excellently and admirably. That time, I have dedicated myself to provide first-rate security service."

With his natural knack and perseverance in his work, all his effort did not go unnoticed by GE management, the company believed in his capacity and he soon sees himself climbing the ladder, functioning as an Area Manager of GE after starting as an ADC.

Before he succeeded, Chad has faced various challenges that allowed him to gauge how well he fits with the GE system, "As an ADC: the usual problem is in the recruitment of security personnel, in turning them down especially my friends and acquaintances, considering that most, if not all of them would be competing for the same vacant positions or would want, at once, a higher position than what was called for under the circumstances or their qualifications for the job."

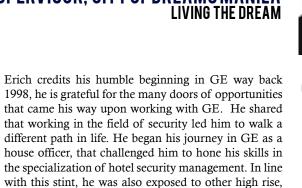

He also added,"I have spent not a few years trying to recruits friends and complete strangers (with strict personal background investigations) and inculcating in them the values of patience, decorum, perseverance, dedication and loyalty. It must be added though that enjoyed knowing that I was helping the recruits to learn and appreciate the significance of true and thorough security service and the fact that in the process I was helping in my own humble way GE, the company that also helped me to become what I am today. "

Working in the security industry has taught Chad many lessons; no task is relatively small, so whatever you do, or does not deliberately do, can readily be noticed, at times even felt, especially by GE management and its discriminating clients...by working hard, your reward can not really be behind, it can just be around the corner. Chad said this without fear of contradiction because he knew this is so. This is his own experience.

"Dedication to duty, responsibility, accountability, management skills, and leadership "mentioned Chad when asked what were the values he learnt after working for GE. He also wants people to know that success must always be coupled with humility. The challenge is to keep oneself grounded despite all the blessings...

Oliver is currently the head of a Corporate Security Department whose cope of responsibility includes the entire Manila Ocean Park complex coupled with special task at the H20 Hotel. He considers himself a seasoned security practitioner having earned the title of a Certified Security Professional (CSP) coupled with years of extensive experience in the hospitality security field. He specializes in providing protection for the hospitality industry, thus making him the right personnel for his current corporate post.

Security was not Oliver's initial career choice having earned a degree in Civil Engineering from University of La Salette but he decided to venture in the field anyway despite knowing the challenges and risks he needed to face. He remembers his humble beginning as a house officer for Shooters Security Services assigned in various international hotels such as Galleria Suites, Frazers Place and Pan Pacific Manila. From this humble beginning, Oliver climbed the ranks to reach where he is right now.

With the right combination of dedication and motivation, he weathered the demands of his positions and worked his way to the top. Because of his unique but effective brand of security service he has earned himself numerous commendations for exemplary service in the field of security, safety and emergency management.

Now that he has realized his career dreams, Oliver continues to maintain the same level of service orientation(or even greater) when he started as a house officer. He knows that the responsibilities now are testament to what he have accomplished, so he willingly took the role in hopes that he can inspire people to not belittle their security jobs and treat their positions with pride and passion.

ARNOLD VILLAGRACIA
SECURITY SPECIALIST, PAN-PACIFIC MANILA

Sharing his story prior to being named as the Security Officer In-charge of Pan Pacific Manila, Arnold Villagracia fondly recalled how he started as a roving house officer for Shooters Security Services assigned in the very same establishment. After 15 years, Arnold is now occupying the highest position of the hotel's security department.

Arnold is grateful for the opportunity Shooters has given him. The agency has equipped him with both the chance for career and personal development as he saw himself flourishing in the field of hospitality security. Being a house prompted him to always be vigilant and alert since there is no dull moment for the position. The support that he received from GE management together with his personal desire to succeed was Oliver's ticket to career advancement.

SAM LOGARTO SECURITY & SAFETY MANAGER, F1 HOTEL & RESORTS ON THE FORMULA FOR SECURITY SUCCESS

Sam is currently the Security and Safety Chief of F1 Hotel Manila and F1 Suites at Global City. Often characterized as soft-spoken, he proved that he is a man of action, wherein his achievements can speak on his behalf, on the type of work ethics he possesses as a security professional. He was born in the peaceful childhood. He was actually a mechanical engineer by profession and he was also a Probationary Second Lieutenant in the Philippine Army with intensive exposure and schooling in military tactics and field investigation.

He started as a house officer with GE but with his work ethics and eye for progress, he soon became one of the most sought-after detachment officer during his tenure with Shooters Security 13 years ago. A constant learner, he further honed his skills and expertise in the province of Iloilo where he spent majority of his security field and now he is integrating his learnings in

> He credits his stint with GE as his baptismal of fire in the industry. He learned a lot specifically on the aspects of discipline, culture and organizational strategies. He used these cornerstones as the main encouragement for his career advancement.

> He added that his current position boosted his expertise as a Safety and Security Manager because of the various connections and networks that he encountered and established thru GE's assistance.

> Sam wants to share to every security practitioner of treating security not as a job but as career. When security is treated like a career, it reflects more than just the monetary benefits but more so on the values and personal gains that will be gained along the way. He challenges the practitioners to promptly deliver accomplishments to the management and customers.

BEFORE THE AMERICAN DREAMS

I sincerely believe that GE deserves to be where it is right now because of its contribution to the field of security and of course, for enriching the lives of its personnel. For me, my stay with GE allowed me to be a better version of myself, this is very important, as I now work in the US. My GE stint truly impacted my life and honed my skills in various areas of specialization. Just this August, I was named as Employee of the Month by my present company, they gave me the distinction because of my customer service excellence. This trait is one of the things I have learned from GE. Now, even more, I wish to serve my current company with my full dedication and commitment. With the help of the Lord I know nothing is impossible.

While in GE that time, I was challenged in my position and had to level up due to the high-end clientele serviced by the company. When I was with GE. I needed to do extensive research of the different companies, for me to familiarize myself with the needs of the clients. These changing demands are brought by the inclusion of new technologies to the daily lives of people. I knew from there I had to equip myself with the right skills and expertise for me to cope with the requisites of my job. Every challenges that I managed to hurdle helped me developed not only as a professional but also as an individual, in short, it made me become a better HENRY. Back then, GE sponsored many seminars for us that added to our competencies. Now, here in the US, I recently passed the rigid written/oral exams and performance evaluation of our company, Whelan.

BAUTISTA CUSTOMER SERVICE OFFICER DEPARTMENT OF SECURITY SERVICES. CHICAGO

My career started with Shooters Security way back October 2001 when I recruited and was assigned at Adriatico Square as a house officer. From 2001-2008, I held the following positions: SIC, ADC and DC, by 2008 - 2013, I was already promoted and functioning as a GE Operations Manager.

In the latter part of 2013 I tried my luck abroad and I arrived here in Chicago. Here, I attended several trainings such as the Security Officer Course at Fidelity Investigative Training Academy. In October 2013, as requirements under the law of State of Illinois, I had to get my PERC Card - Permanent Employee Registration Card and FOID Card - Firearm Owner's Identification Card before performing my security profession.

I think what I learned from GE is to never stop reaching for excellence. When I arrived here in the US, I knew it was going to be difficult adjusting, but with the motivation to help my family and gain personal benefits, I worked hard and dedicated my time learning. My experience on the rigid and complex security operations while in GE made my job hunting in the US easier and my promotion earlier.

INTERNET SECURITY

This era is dubbed as the Cyber Age due to integration of technology in the lives of people. The internet, for example, has became a household staple that studies would show that people average more time in the cyberspace than they sleep. But because this integration, criminals also followed people to the cyber space and cases relating the internet continue to promulgate society. Cases such as identity theft are increasing on an alarming rate. That is why people need to double their efforts in ensuring that they will not add to the long list of victims of cyber crimes.

IDENTITY PROTECTION

It is important to create a strong password. Keep in mind that the main key to any account is the password because it allows the person who knows it exclusive access to the account. The password must be strong, unique and cannot be guessed easily by anyone. As much as possible do not share your password to anyone. It is recommended to choose a password that is comprised of a combination of letters, numbers, characters, lowercase, and uppercase.

AGREEING TO TERMS AND CONDITION OF DOWNLOADED APPLICATION

Each time a new application or software will be installed it is important to be mindful of the terms and agreements. There are several websites that are actually capable of putting adware on a person's computer that can track person to disclose all personal information in legitimate companies asking for money order to purchase their products, if a person does not supply the required information then the purchase or transaction cannot proceed.

DONOT GIVE PERSONAL INFORMATION TO ANYONE

Important personal details such as phone numbers, birth date, address and complete name to anyone in the cyberspace. It is important for people to be wary of who they give personal information to because they do not know who they are actually talking to. Giving personal information online is not only dangerous because of its online consequence but also the person's physical the movement and browsing habit of the E-mails considered as Phishing are sent user. There are also some sites that require a to anyone and they appear to be sent by and support to fund their projects. Some of these e-mails also ask for the password of the person. It is vital to know that legitimate companies such as Google and Yahoo will never ask their users to email their personal passwords and details.

LIMIT INFORMATION SHARED IN SOCIAL MEDIA

Social media is today's generation greatest companion. Users of many social media platforms must be careful when disclosing personal information in the social media for the main reason that anyone can see this information. Limit the information shared in social media accounts in order to protect both one's identity and privacy.

According to a report posted by the Philippine Star, Online Scams has topped the list of complaints garnered by the Philippine National Police- Anti- Cybercrime Group (PNP-ACG). Many of these cases were reported by victims of online shops and other major cybercrimes.

In line with efforts of alerting the general public regarding these online scams, the PNP-ACG promulgated materials that aim to heighten the awareness of the public to various types of internet fraud scams. One of the most common types of internet scams are related to bank activities that swindles large amount of money from victims.

CARDSKIMMING

Card skimming is defined as the illegal copying of information from the magnetic strip of a credit or Automated Teller Machine (ATM) card. The scammers try to steal the individual's details so they can access the accounts. Once scammers have skimmed the person's card, they can create a fake or cloned card with the victim's details on it. The scammer is then able to run up charges on the person's account. According to the PNP-ACG, here are some tips to protect one's self from such scam: Protect yourself from Card Skimming

1. Keep your credit card and ATM cards safe. Do not share your personal identity number (PIN) with anyone. Do not keep any written copy of your PIN with the card.

- 2. Check your bank account and credit card statements when you get them. If you see a transaction you cannot explain, report it to your bank.
- 3. Choose passwords that would be difficult to guess.
- 4. If you are using an ATM, take the time to check that there is nothing suspicious or extra ordinary about the machine.
- 5. Ask yourself if you trust the person who you are handing your card over to. If a shop personnel looks like they are going to take your card out of your sight, ask if it is really necessary.
- 6. If an ATM looks suspicious, do not use it and alert the ATM owner.
- 7. If you are in a shop and the personnel wants to swipe your card out of your sight, or in a second machine, you should ask for your card back right away.

PHISHING

The goal of criminals using brand spoofing is to lead consumers to believe that a request for information is coming from a legitimate company, but in reality it is a malicious attempt to collect customer information for the purpose of committing fraud.

Protect yourself from Phishing

- 1. Protect your computer with anti-virus software, spyware filters, email filters and firewall programs.
- 2. You can verify a website's authenticity by looking for "https:" at the beginning of the internet address.
- 3. Contact the bank immediately and report your suspicions.
- 4. Do not reply to any email that requests your personal information. 5. Look for misspelled words.

1st Eagle is another company under the umbrella of GE that is proud of its humble roots, it was established in March 2006, and after only a decade operating, was able to successfully establish branches in Regions 6 and 7. The agency is GE's answer to its growing list of clients and the diversification of the market. Similar to other GE companies, 1st Eagle follows the brand promise of GE, which is upholding the passion towards serving the people. Despite the stiff market competition, 1st Eagle was able to build a solid reputation amongst its peers that earned respect and trust from the loyal clienteles of the company. GE is proud of what 1st Eagle has become and what it will still become in the years to come.

A decade is considered a milestone for any company due to the unpredictability of the industry. 1st Eagle credits its success to the men and women who sacrificed time and effort to build a company that can stand alone and represent the core values of GE. The first 10 years, was not an easy industry feat to achieve but 1st Eagle managed to do it, very well.
